

Traveller Information Sheets

Internet information for travellers

The following websites are free for patients to access for information:

- Malaria Maps:
 - <http://www.cdc.gov/malaria/map/> - From this website you can access the malaria map application.
 - <http://cdc-malaria.ncsa.uiuc.edu/> - If you understand how to read the malaria maps, they can be accessed directly from this site.
- Yellow Fever Maps:
 - <http://www.cdc.gov/yellowfever/maps/> - Yellow fever maps can be viewed on this website.
- Vaccinations for travel:
 - <http://travelclinic.com.au/vaccine-information-by-country/> - Destination specific information can be accessed on this website, as well as government warnings or recommendations against travel. Consular contact details can also be found here.
- Information on Travel:
 - www.who.int/ - Contains the International travel and health guidelines, as well as current disease outbreaks.
 - www.istm.org/ - International Society of Travel Medicine – Clinics can be found at most destinations on the website.

Reference

Centre for disease control, and prevention, n.d., Atlanta GA, viewed 22nd April 2014, <<http://cdc-malaria.ncsa.uiuc.edu/>>

Centre for disease control and Prevention, 2010, Atlanta GA, viewed 22nd April 2014, <<http://www.cdc.gov/malaria/map/>>

Centres for disease control and prevention, 2011, Atlanta GA, viewed 22nd April 2014, <<http://www.cdc.gov/yellowfever/maps/>>

Cohen J, 2014, Travel Clinics Australia, viewed 22nd April 2014, <<http://travelclinic.com.au/vaccine-information-by-country/>>

International Society of Travel Medicine, 2014, Decatur, GA, viewed 22nd April 2014, <www.istm.org/>

World health Organisation, 2014, Geneva Switzerland, viewed 22nd April 2014, <www.who.int/>

